Republicans Shout 'Foul'

Ohio Legislators Lock In Fight Over Spending Controls

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A head-to-head battle developed in the Ohio Legislature today on the Legislature's control over spending by state departments.

Republican leaders in the Democratic-dominated 103rd General Assembly shouted "foul" at their first realization that Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is proposing a lump-sum type of appropriation to finance operation of various state departments in the next two years.

Mafia Mobster Faces Probers

Mickey Cohen Also To Be Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carlos Marcello, denounced as a Mafia mobster with a police-protected grip on rackets in the South, faces questioning today by Senate investigators.

The labor-management committee also summoned underworld figure Mickey Cohen of Los Angeles in its quest for evidence of an interstate racketeering conspiracy. Cohen insists he has broken with the crime world.

The committee opened hearings Monday on charges that gangsters have taken over control of much of the coin-operated machine business in the New Orleans area, in part through alliances with corrupt public officials.

The committee left unanswered whether it also would call William Coci, sheriff of Louisiana's Jefferson Parish (County), a New Orleans suburb, Coci, whose name was linked with Marcello's in testimony Monday, was described as a one-time reform candidate who has since led "a very aggressive anti-good government movement."

Witnesses swore that in Jefferson Parish Marcello has found a haven from trouble with the law while building a racket empire that extends into Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, and Arkansas.

Marcello was named by the old Senate Crime Investigating committee in 1953 as one of the nation's principal criminals with a record of many arrests but few convictions because witnesses feared to testify against him. The government is trying to deport him as a convicted big time trafficker in marijuana.

Lisbon Street Repair Survey Is Planned

LISBON — Village Council at its meeting Monday night in Village Hall requested the street department to make a survey of streets to determine which needed repaving most.

Because of the severe winter, many of the streets are in poor condition. However, the village has a limited amount of money for repair work, it was stressed.

A bid of $7.30 per ton for street topping has been received from the Youngstown Asphalt Co., it was reported.

Council voted to increase the salary of Third Flagon to $4,680, effective April 1.

He has been street commissioner since last March and he is also acting fire chief.

In other business, Council gave the Junior Chamber of Commerce permission to hold a street fair June 3 through June 6 on S. Market St. and S. Park Ave. Proceeds will be used to purchase recreational facilities at the Sadie VanFossan Swimming Pool.

William James presented a petition signed by merchants endorsing the fair.

Other Jaycees present at last night's meeting were President Gene Tolson and Don Lepley.

Costs of placing a blinker light at W. Lincoln Way and Thomas Road were discussed and it was reported that one bid of $350 had been received.

Council decided to seek other bids before making a decision. The school board has offered to pay $150 to help defray expenses.

A joint protest statement came from Senate Minority Leader C. Stanley Mechem and House Minority Leader Roger Cloud as lawmakers gathered for their 12th work week.

But before their joint statement was issued, House Speaker James A. Lantz (D-Fairfield) told House committee chairmen to start DiSalle's tax program through House channels. Taxation Committee Chairman A. G. Lancione (D-Belmont) reported tax increases on cigarettes, 3.2 beer and corporation franchises probably will be recommended this week—and possibly a two-cent boost in gasoline and diesel fuel levies.

Warned To Stick Together
Lantz warned the Democrats to stick together, adding: "If we succumb to efforts to divide and conquer, we could come down to the end of the session with no program at all."

The hassle over the form of the budget was late in developing simply because busy legislators hadn't had time to look at the budget bill presented three weeks ago. But they screamed bloody murder when they got their first look at the official bill printed Thursday.

The proposed budget bill—not the budget itself, which is a separate document—abandons itemized appropriations for state departments and agencies and substitutes lump-sum appropriations. It gives the director of finance the authority to decide how each department's appropriation should be spent over the two-year period.

"How would you ever amend the bill," Cloud asked newsmen, "if you disapproved of a single proposed expenditure?"

Items Stated Separately
In past budget bills, items of expense in each department's allowance have been stated separately, such as salaries, other services, maintenance, office expense, supplies, travel, etc. Each item occupied on line, making it easy for legislators to increase or slash various expense items by amendment.

But the DiSalle budget bill, prepared by Finance Director James Maloon, swings over to the "program-type" appropriation which, instead of items, lists only the annual appropriation for the operation of each department. Like this: Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction.

Division of Correction, 1959-60, $13,140,839; 1960-61, $13,709,824. Biennial Operation Expenses, $26,930,860.

And that's all. The Mechem-Cloud statement asserted:

"If the Legislature does this, it will be giving away its only effective method of control of state expenditures; delegating its constitutional responsibility for such control to the state finance director; . . . leaving the governor and his finance director in a position to be subjected to great pressure for increases in expenditures.

"To propose that the Legislature renounce its constitutional prerogatives in this manner is to indicate a lack of confidence in legislative judgment and would give much

Commissioners Lease 14 Voting Machines

LISBON — Columbiana County Commissioners R. Max Gard and Frank Wilson Monday signed another contract with the Shoub Voting Machine Corp., leasing 14 electrically operated voting machines for the May and November elections, at a cost of $182.30 per machine or a total of $2,552.20.

Commissioner Walter Hunston refused to sign.

The contract cancels the "purchase" contract signed by Gard and Wilson March 12.

If commissioners decide to purchase the machines by Dec. 3, the lease price will apply on the purchase price. If they purchase the machines, they may pay off the balance in nine yearly payments with interest at four per cent a year on the unpaid balance.

County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw had advised the commissioners that the first contract they signed was a conditional sale agreement. Hunston had refused to sign that contract also.

Hit Greenville, Pa., Service Station

Youngstown Escapees Suspected of Holdup

GREENVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Three men and a woman—believed to be the four who escaped from a Youngstown, Ohio, jail Monday held up a service station near here today and got away with $50.

Andrew Rerko, the service station attendant, said that at gun point he was tied up and put in a washroom. He said the men wore blue coveralls — apparently jail clothes—and the woman sat in the back seat of a 1956 Buick.

A car matching that description was stolen from Maple Heights, a Cleveland suburb, shortly after a station wagon was abandoned there this morning.

The service station is on Pennsylvania 358, just six miles east of the Ohio line.

The escapees—three men and a woman—used an auto owned by one of the Mahoning County jailers to make their getaway Monday. That car was found abandoned on a county road near Ravenna Monday night. In it were the master keys to the jail.

Shortly after finding that auto, the Portage County sheriff's office said it learned the fugitives switched to the station wagon.

The woman, Mrs. Lola Gordon, 40, was cleared last week of a burglary charge and was merely being given shelter until she received train fare from a relative to go to New York State.

Chief Sheriff's Deputy Frank Reese said Mrs. Gordon willingly accompanied the three men. Her husband, Albert, whom she left behind in jail, was unable to explain why his wife fled with the others. Gordon is awaiting transfer to the penitentiary after pleading guilty to burglary.

The three men who escaped, all from Youngstown, are Robert P. Herman, 36, convicted of armed robbery; Joseph Orville, 23, sentenced to a year in prison for burglary; and Donald Sweet, 24, held for grand jury action in the theft of a $3,000 gun collection. All are parole violators.

They escaped by overpowering two guards, beating one unconscious, Guard William Kriskell was forced to accompany them in his own automobile but was released later unharmed.

The other would raise the base for payroll taxes. At present, employers pay on the first $3,000 of a worker's wage. Mitchell said this should be raised to $4,200. The present average tax is less than 2 per cent.

Mitchell said the President recommended that the states increase their benefits so the unemployed receive at least half the wages they were getting when they had jobs. At present benefits range from 26 per week in South Carolina to 45 per week in New York.

He said a second major proposal was that states pay benefits for at least 26 weeks. The range is from 16 weeks maximum in Florida to 45 weeks in Pennsylvania.

Child Has Heart Defect
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An infant girl with a defective heart arrived here Monday for treatment after a 700-mile race from Missouri by automobile.

Police along the way from Joplin, Mo., to Houston cleared the highway for Mrs. Gale Evans, her 7-week-old daughter, Donna, and the baby's grandmother, Mrs. Ralph Chrisman.

Police Lt. Weldon Davis of Oklahoma City, who drove the 500 miles between Oklahoma City and Houston, said, "It was just like being on a turnpike. Officers in every little town were waiting for us, clearing the highway."

Donna weighed only two pounds at birth and has gained only six more. She is seriously ill but her condition isn't critical, a physician at Texas Children's Hospital said. She will undergo a series of tests

Fresh Fighting Reported In Tibetan Capital

Nationalist Chinese
Say 25,000 Rebels
Massed Near Lhasa

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Reports from the India-Tibet border today told of fresh fighting in embattled Lhasa, with Tibetan freedom fighters using light machineguns they captured from Red Chinese troops.

The sketchy reports from the Indian frontier town of Kalimpong gave no other details of the new outbreak in the Tibetan capital, where crowd of Tibetans attacked Communist occupation troops March 20. Rebel tribesmen in the countryside have been fighting the Red occupiers for months.

Situation Called Delicate
Official sources in New Delhi said they had no word beyond Monday's statement by Prime Minister Nehru, who told parliament the fighting in Lhasa apparently had subsided but that the situation was "delicate."

Red China kept silent about the reported revolt. Peiping radio talked about farming and industrial progress in Tibet under Red auspices, an apparent attempt to make light of revolt reports.

Nationalist Chinese officials on Formosa said they had received intelligence reports direct from Tibet saying Lhasa was in a state of war with some 25,000 rebels massed near the capital.

Marching Toward Lhasa
Li Yung-hsin, a member of the Nationalist Chinese Cabinet, said rebel reinforcements were reported marching toward Lhasa from two directions. He said one column was coming from Sikang, the Chinese province adjoining eastern Tibet, and the other moving northeast from Gyantse, the Tibetan trading center 105 miles southwest of Lhasa which the Nationalists claim the rebels have captured.

The Nationalist government's radio was beaming frequent reports on the Tibetan revolt to the Communist-held mainland. The Reds were jamming the casts to keep the word from spreading.

Taipei said it had word that 300 anti-Communist representatives from China's Tsinghai and Sikang provinces met in Lhasa March 19 when the trouble began and mapped plans for a mass attack on the capital. The report said the Dalai Lama, spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet's 1,300,000 people, had approved the plan.

The Nationalists said they had been receiving conflicting rumors about the fate of the 23-year-old

Kiln Collapse Hurts 2 Men, One Seriously

Two area men were injured seriously while dismantling an old beehive brick kiln at the Summitville Face Brick Co. Monday morning.

Ralph L. Kreps, 26, of Hanoverton and his brother, Floyd E. Kreps, 35, of Salineville, were working alongside the kiln, when a third man cut a steel support, causing it to collapse.

The tumbling bricks pinned the victims against a truck that was parked nearby.

The third workman thought the brothers were clear of the structure, it was reported.

Ralph is reported in poor condition at the Salem Central Clinic with fractures of the right arm and wrist, multiple lacerations and abrasions, possible fractures of the jaw and right leg.

Floyd is in fair condition with a dislocated right hip, fractured left ankle and multiple lacerations and abrasions.

Pete Johnson, vice president of the Summitville Firm said brothers were buried under rubble for 15 or 20 minutes.

Ralph is married and has one child. His wife, Shirley, works at the Summitville plant.

The kiln is one of several being dismantled to make room for a new tunnel kiln.

10-Acre Grass Fire Checked At Palestine

Rescue Attempts Fail

Youth Trapped In Cave In England Succumbs

BUXTON, England (AP) — An amateur explorer, Neil Moss, fell 100 feet first Sunday afternoon into the "Devil's Hole" of Britain's deepest cave. He had been unconscious since Sunday night but early today had been reported breathing "quite well" with the aid of oxygen administered to him at intervals.

Police announced his death as Britain tensely followed the heart-breaking rescue attempt here in the English Midlands.

The husky, 170-pound collegian's shoulders were wedged so tight 40 feet down in the S-shaped rock shaft that four attempts to pull him free Monday failed. A rope slipped under his limp arms broke each time.

Rescuers tried to work from both ends of the hollow shaft holding Moss captive.

June Bailey, a 5-foot blonde weighing only 106 pounds, wriggled her way down into the tunnel but gave up after six hours. She said she got within sight of Moss but was driven back by foul air.

"If the air clears I will go down again later today," she said.

Another route to the trapped student was sought by Bob Leakey, a cave expert for 30 years. Wearing a frogman suit, he searched for a subterranean stream through which he might approach the boy.

Confident of Averting War Over Berlin

British Leader Wings
Home After Talks
With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan headed for home after his talks with President Eisenhower today predicting "we shall succeed" in negotiations over Berlin.

He conceded the West faces "a tough task" in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Macmillan left in apparent confidence that the strategy for negotiations leading toward a summit conference, worked out with Eisenhower, will avert a military showdown over Berlin.

Departure Statement
In a departure statement at the airport he recalled that he had said on arrival here Thursday that disputes between the Soviet Union and the Western powers should be settled "by negotiation and not by force."

"I have no doubt," he said today, "that so long as we stand firmly by our principles—as we shall do—the free world has everything to gain from being ready to negotiate."

Macmillan said he was grateful to Eisenhower for his hospitality and that he considered the informality of Camp David, Md., a better background for discussing world problems than the more formal surrounding of most conferences.

Heid Over Weekend
The main talks were held over the weekend at the secluded and guarded presidential retreat in the Catskill Mountains.

Macmillan said goodbye to Eisenhower in a meeting at the White House late Monday. Those who headed the official farewell party at the airport this morning were Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

The plans call for a meeting of foreign ministers in May, and a later summit conference to direct

Success Story

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "The more people say a thing can't be done," said William R. McLain, "the greater the opportunity for the right man to do it."

His willingness to try the impossible has enabled McLain, president of a Nashville, Tenn. toy firm, to parlay $300 into a five-million-dollar annual business.

All his life McLain, a slender, 42-year-old chemical engineer, had wanted a business of his own. In 1945 he decided to make the gamble with $300 mustering-out pay he received when he left the Navy.

He and his partner, Earl Horton, a college friend, decided to enter the competitive toy field. Their families shared a farm shack outside Nashville while the partners drew up careful plans.

Impressed by their thoroughness and enthusiasm, a banker lent them $55,000—they had no collateral—to get started. They grossed $285,000 in 1946, their first year in business. And every year since then they have done better.

Today they have three plants, 350 employees. In addition to a line of 32 toys, they now turn out dozens of industrial plastic items for some of the nation's largest firms.

McLain's success principles are simple.

"Don't try to imitate the other fellow," he drawled. "It pays to be different, to plow a new furrow."

"Hire good people, treat them well, and—as far as you can—let them alone."

"Money and machinery are important in a firm's success, but the biggest factor is people. They've got the answer to most of your problems."

"We believe in starting them young and giving them responsibility. At 42, I'm the second oldest executive in our company."

The average life of novelty toys is only two to three years. "One of our most worrisome problems is people who keep writing us with ideas for new toys," said McLain. "We are not in the market for them. We have our own staff, and we like to originate our own toys."

Could another man start from scratch now and do as well as he did?

"Certainly," he said. "He ought to find it even easier. The opportunity is greater now, and it should be even greater in the next few years."

"All he has to do is to find something that people say can't be done—and go ahead and do it. The trouble is that few who have the desire to succeed have the willingness to put out the energy and drive that is required."

STILL NO TREASURER

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP)—Clermont County still has no treasurer to succeed John P. Friend Jr., who resigned Wednesday after state auditors found his accounts short $48,747. The three commissioners meet again today to seek agreement on an appointee. Each commissioner nominated a different prospect Monday, but each proposal failed for lack of a seconding motion.

CHILDREN OF THE BIBLE

ZIPPORAH

"And Moses was content to dwell with the man; and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter."

—Exodus 2:21

When Moses was forced to flee from Egypt because he had killed a slave driver who was beating a Hebrew workman, he took refuge in Midian.

This was a country extending from the northeast shores of the Dead Sea, far into the Arabian peninsula.

Like any weary traveler, he paused at a well to rest and refresh himself with a cool drink. It was while he was there that he first met Zipporah.

She and her six sisters had brought their flocks to the well for their daily watering. But some rude shepherds who had arrived first, would not allow the girls to bring their sheep near the well.

Young Moses immediately came to the girls' rescue. He not only defied the shepherds, but he even helped the girls fill the troughs to water their flocks.

As he did so, he singled out Zipporah, whose voice—even in anger—had the sweet tone of a dove. After the painted faces of the Egyptian court, the simple beauty of her outdoor countenance refreshed him, like the cool water of the well.

Perhaps he thought to himself: here is this country's heart, the sweet life of contentment. Trust in God, for this child, is joy in the morning, and the distant tinkle of the ram's bell. God descends with the rain, and He is inhaled with the fragrant smell of the harvest.

And shyly averting her eyes from the stranger, no doubt Zipporah was moved to thoughts of her own:

Many men have done me good turns. But this one if different. There is kindness in him; but there is strength and terrible power, like the lightning behind clouds.

When the girls arrived home, their father asked:

"How is it that ye are come so soon today?"

Then they told him of the kind Egyptian who had helped them at the well.

"Where is he?" said their father, a little annoyed that they had not shown hospitality to the kind stranger.

"Call him that he may eat bread."

So Moses came to Zipporah's house. "And Moses was content to live with the man; and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter."

Boy Held In Extortion
Try at East Liverpool

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—A 15-year-old boy accused of attempting to extort $500 from the wife of an East Liverpool physician is in jail here today.

Police Chief Americo Radeschi said the boy admitted he mailed a note to Mrs. J. Keith Rugh last Wednesday telling her that he would harm her children unless she dropped $500 in a paper bag in front of the Second Presbyterian Church here Saturday night. The Rughs have three young sons.

The boy was arrested by police and FBI agents from Cleveland and Youngstown when he picked up a bag purportedly containing the money. Radeschi said the boy told officers he had been waiting about a block away for the money to be dropped.

The FBI in Cleveland identified the boy as Ray Kenneth Orin and said he will be arraigned before U.S. Commissioner William G. Dornan at Youngstown on a charge of violating the federal juvenile delinquency act.

Radeschi said the boy told officers he "needed the money" but gave no other explanation for mailing the note.

This is what 400 Pennsylvanians said they'd do with a $2,000 windfall:

Nine Killed
In Mine Blast
Were Related

ONEIDA, Tenn. (AP) — This small east Tennessee town, where kinship bonds are strong, was hit hard by an explosion in a family mine that killed nine.

All nine men killed Monday in the mining accident at Robbins, 15 miles south of here, were related by blood or marriage. The victims all lived in or near Oneida, the Scott County seat.

"Every one of them was related to me except Elmer Phillips," said Lee West, director of the Oneida Funeral Home. "And he was related to my wife."

A spark from an electric motor is believed to have caused a pocket of gas to explode shortly while the mine ventilating system was turned off over the weekend.

W. O. West, a partner in the small truck operation, was the only witness and the only survivor. He was standing at the mine tippie, where he heard the explosion and saw smoke roll out of the mine shaft.

His brother and partner, Oscar, 47, was one of the victims.

The blast was the worst Tennessee mine accident since 10 men died in an explosion near LaFollett in 1943. It left townspeople in Oneida with little to say. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away," one woman murmured. "But you're never ready. You're never ready."

The victims were Oscar West, another partner, Burl Phillips, 52, and his two sons, Hubert, 30 and Arzo, 17; Bernard, 33 and William Yancey, 36, brothers; John L. Pike, 46; Elmer Phillips, 33; and Ed Chitwood, 50.

EASTER PARADE

New hats. New suits. New shoes. Family camera loaded with Kodak color film. That's the way to step out in style this Easter Sunday. And for pictures you'll really treasure, we'd like to pass along a couple of useful hints.

When you start taking your pictures, keep an eye out for plain backgrounds. Lamp posts and trees have a way of sprouting from people's heads when you're not careful. Good idea, set the camera down low and shoot upwards for some of your snapshots and let the sky be your background.

When it comes to posing, try to avoid the "firing squad" look. You know, everybody lined up in a stiff, straight, row staring into the camera.

Instead, try to give your pictures a natural look. Have mom on the front steps straightening junior's tie. Dad could be checking his appearance in the car's side mirror. For a group shot have your subjects look off to the side of the camera and wave. Get the idea? Just relax and the good picture ideas will come free and easy.

One final word of advice: don't run short of film just when you get your best picture idea. Stock up on plenty of your favorite Kodak film. We have complete stocks on hand right now. Drop in while you're thinking about it.

Listing of New Books at Salem Public Library

Among the new novels added to the Salem Public Library during the past week is one that is rated high on the list of important books to be published this Spring. "Dear and Glorious Physician" is a fictional biography of Lake who was influenced toward medicine and religion by the death of the girl he loved. Through the capable writing of Taylor Caldwell, the author of the Gospel according to St. Luke becomes a very real and human person.

OTHER FICTION
"Patchwork Hero" by Michael Noonan. A nostalgic story about an Australian boy who idealized his father. When the father married again the boy felt that life would be perfect.

"Marchant of Murder" by Prentice Winchell. Don Cadec, chief protection officer of Amblett's Department Store discovered violence and murder as he unraveled the mystery of the theft of $9,000 worth of merchandise and the disappearance of Timmy Forde.

"Bright Web of Darkness" by Alexander Saxton. The ship-building industry in San Francisco during and after the war makes a vivid background for this novel about a man's fight against crooked labor unions and racial prejudice.

"A Victim Must Be Found" by Anne Hocking. An English nurse sets out to blackmail other members of the hospital staff, but a murder upsets her plans.

"The Pistol" by James Jones. A perceptive story about an Army private who was able to keep an army pistol because of the excitement at Pearl Harbor. He soon learns that others are ready to buy or steal the weapon from him.

"No Question of Murder" by Peter Curtis. A tale of suspense written by one of our leading authors whose best selling novels are published under another name.

"Anna and Her Daughters" by D. E. Stevenson. After her husband's death, Anna took her three daughters to a small town in Scotland where living costs were less. The strangeness of their new life was just beginning to wear off when the daughters fell in love with the same man.

"Never Turn Your Back" by Margaret Scherf. When the minister returned home one day, he found his home had been changed into a modern monstrosity. When the builder was delivered in a packing case, Martin Buell was assigned to the mystery.

NONFICTION
"Beauty Birds" by E. H. Newberry. An artistic collection of photographs, in flight and still, with chapters on nesting habits and the songs of birds from many countries.

"Men of Science in America" edited by Bernard Jaffe. The contributions of twenty Scientists from Colonial times to the atomic age are used to illustrate the tremendous growth of science in the development of America.

"Hannibal" by Harold Lamb. The life of the Cathaginian who hated Rome and crossed the impassible Alps to destroy it only to find that his hate had destroyed his will to live.

"Cripple Creek Days" by M. B. Lee. The author tells of her father and his prospecting for gold at Cripple Creek during gold rush days. An authentic picture of an exciting chapter in the history of our country.

"Brave New World Revisited" by Aldous Huxley. In a startling appraisal of the destructive forces latent in contemporary society this provocative book attempts to show that the "brave new world" may be closer than we think.

"The Atlantic Book of British and American Poetry" compiled by Edith Sitwell. The noted English poet and critic has chosen the best English language poetry from pre-Chaucerian lyrics to present day verse.

"I'll Take Texas" by Mary Lasswell. Five years ago the author returned to her native Texas for a visit and remained as a resident. In this book she tells about her travels around the state, tracking down legends and learning about the wonders of Texas.

"The Angry Scar" by Holding Carter. The militant journalist and Pulitzer Prize winner tells what happened during the Reconstruction Period in the South. With the help of diaries, letters and other source material he describes the effects of violence and hate by both Northerners and Southerners.

Questions and Answers

I have before me a letter, the like of which I never expected to see. I cannot attempt to answer it. If any reader is able to do so, I should like to know.

Q — I am a woman of 60. of average intelligence. While my problem may seem trivial to you, it is serious for me. I talk too much. There are times when my tongue seems to wag at both ends and, try as I may, I can't seem to keep quiet. I have had to leave a room and go somewhere where there was no one to listen so I could control my wagging tongue. I have been told by family and friends, and others not so friendly, that I talk too much. Is this nerves or the craving for attention? I'll be watching for your answer.

I shall now turn to a question which seems simple by comparison.

Q — Please say something about hammer toe and what can be done for it. I have had it many years, but it has become quite painful.

A — This is a name attached to a deformity of one of the toes resulting from the pressure of short, narrow shoes on the end of a long toe. The second toe, of course, is the one most frequently involved. A hammer toe is usually associated with tender corns and callouses. Probably that is what is causing Mrs. S.' trouble.

In early cases, simple manipulation of the toe and splinting of it — and, of course, the wearing of proper shoes — may be enough to relieve the discomfort. In more complicated and advanced cases, surgery on the toe, or sometimes the complete removal, may be necessary in order to bring about a satisfactory result.

Q — I have been told that when a person passes his middle years (50 or so) it is best to eat more often but not to overeat at any meal. Do you believe this to be beneficial?

A — I believe it best not to overeat at any meal, regardless of age. However, the digestive system of older people cannot stand abuse as easily as a younger person.

The frequency of eating, as well as the amount eaten, can well be modified from time to time, but depends largely on the nutritional needs and personal digestive system of the individual rather than on age in years.

Q — Would you please say something about uveitis?

A — This is an inflammation of the pigimentary layer of the eye. It may be the result of direct invasion by germs, or related to general infectious disease.

It is not something which can be managed by home care, but is a problem for the eye specialist and perhaps other specialists.

Warning Issued Against Bogus Canvassers

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)

— An aide of Billy Graham warned Australians today against phony canvassers who have been going from house to house soliciting money in the name of the American revivalist's crusade.

"At no time has the crusade canvassed for funds, nor has it any intention of doing so," declared John Robinson, secretary of the crusade.

Robinson said the canvassers had been busy in several Melbourne suburbs and had picked up a good deal of money from unsuspecting householders.

Graham finished his Melbourne crusade more than a week ago and is vacationing on the Queensland coast before holding more meetings in Australia. Expenses of the Melbourne crusade—$171,000—were covered by offerings at the meetings and donations from local backers.

Men Who Help the Parade Go By

What would a parade be without traffic direction? Pretty much of a tangled mess, wouldn't it?

The smooth functioning of local parades, like the one held Sunday in honor of Salem High School's basketball team, is due to the preparation and teamwork of defense and army reserve units, police, constables and auxiliary policemen.

The length of Sunday's motor caravan, extending five miles from Damascus to Salem, required that all traffic be stopped not only on the main highway but on all adjacent intersecting roads. To accomplish this, Parade Marshal John Herman had the complete cooperation of members of local companies A and B of the Ohio Defense Corps, members of the Salem Army Reserve Center, constables from both Mahoning and Columbiana Counties, regular police and state patrolmen.

These men, readily recognized in their familiar uniforms, deserve a pat on the back from the general public for their able assistance. Theirs is strictly a volunteer civic service. Supervising the traffic details were such men as T/S Dale Foust of the Army Reserve, Lt. William Frederick and Capt. Eugene Eoff of the Defense companies and Rinaldo Oriole of the auxiliary police.

In addition to volunteering for service at all special events in Salem, these components are ready in case of any disaster. It's comforting to have them around.

Slitcher's Provocative Ideas

It is grim, ticklish business to dismantle the dud bomb left unexploded when the West in Berlin, completely surrounded by their Communist comrades-in-arms.

No one gives the Kremlin the benefit of a doubt in a case like this, but Berlin is as grim and ticklish a problem for its politicians and militarists as it is for the politicians and militarists of the United States, Britain and France.

All of them would like to dismantle the bomb before it explodes and blows them into oblivion. Nikita Khrushchev unavoidably is getting the blame for setting a deadline for had to be a showdown eventually.

The purpose of negotiation is to avert an explosion. And the technique of negotiation is to seek and find points of agreement. There is no job for shattered nerves. Fortunately, Dwight Eisenhower, Harold MacMillan, Nikita Khrushchev and even Charles de Gaulle have given evidence of extreme composure—far more so than the jittery political poppifs who have been exploiting a chance to go into hysterics.

If the leaders can continue to keep themselves from flying apart under pressure, the next move will be to find enough potential points of agreement to justify hope of accord.

One point might be mutual reductions of armament and military personnel in Germany, where military tension has been bleeding treasuries white.

Another might be abandonment of the idea that no settlement is possible without unification of Germany. Germany may never be united.

And still another might be recognition of the long-term impossibility of maintaining a military standoff in Berlin without a military clash.

There is a way to come out of the Berlin crisis without war; the task is to find it. If Khrushchev will quit tapping the Berlin bomb for the pleasure of watching bystanders to set a good example for their countrymen and if De Gaulle can forget nationalism long enough to remember he wouldn't have any if France's allies hadn't fought World War II to secure a French future, there need be no war, despite those who have been talking as if they would like to have one.

If the value of the dog, for example, is more than $35 the prison term may be as much as one year and the fine $500. For animals of lesser value, the prison term may be as much as three months and the fine as much as $200.

The trouble is, of course, that the executioners are hard to catch. You hear about them but almost never find out who they are. They operate after dark. They do not boast of their prowess with guns and poison. If they did, their own lives wouldn't be worth much more than the value they assign to the lives of the pets they love to kill.

A stiff penalty in the law is no comfort to the owner of a pet that has been executed contrary to the law. But it can be an incentive to those who may be wronged by the executioners to demand the complete cooperation of law enforcement officials in cases where there is even an outside chance of getting enough evidence to give the culprits up to the year in jail and the $500 fine they richly deserve.

Hoffa and the Girl Scout Cookies

There is a fascinating squabble in San Francisco about who should make the Girl Scout cookies that go on sale out there next month.

The Bakery Drivers Local 484 of the Teamsters Union says it will hold up its contribution to the United Crusade unless the cookies are made in San Francisco. This is what is known as Teamster pressure on Girl Scouts. Their cookies now come from faraway places, such as National Sales and Service Co. in Tulsa, Okla., which appears to be getting its supplies from Lowell, Mass.

This in itself is not without fascination, but that is not what is turning out to be fascinating.

We always had admired the Girl Scouts as we munched the cookies that bring the organization a sizeable sum of good-will income. We had asked its charming salesmen on occasion for the recipe of their excellent cookies and when no information was forthcoming had concluded it was a secret like the formula for Coca Cola.

But always we had the vision of earnest little girls beating batter, forming it into cookies, popping them into the oven and packaging the yummy result for house-to-house distribution. It made helping the Girl Scouts more pleasant than it would have been to help them with no vision.

Understand, we knew better, because little girls these days do not know how to make cookies in the first place. It was just a kind of dream we had. And it was more fun than to think of getting a picture of J. Hoffa with each package of Girl Scout cookies, like the customers in San Francisco.

Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

There are so many weather forecasts on airwaves that you can get a choice of weather by merely tuning out of one into another. Glamour gals are forecasting on TV. They get the nod over male prophets because if a cute doll is predicting a blizzard it seems less terrifying. You can concentrate on her big blue eyes all through her stuff about bad weather. Her hairdo can take your mind off the zero situation in Oswego.

A man forecaster, warning of a temperature drop with snow, can depress us deeply. But a pretty girl's forecast of the dirtiest weather can be lost in considerations of her warm smile.

The missus is less easily impressed. There is one young woman weather expert whose clothes never please her. "What was the forecast?" we ask and the wife replies, "I dunno. She's just given it but all I noticed was that she looks awful in tonight's blouse."

She favors male forecasters but not the current crop. It is her idea the job calls for Pat Boone, John Wayne or Burt Lancaster. The moppets think that if the TV screens bother with weather they should get their rain or snow from Hugh O'Brian or Hopalong Cassidy.

AIRWAVE FORECASTERS of the moment deserve credit for at least making it easier to get a wide selection of weather. If one fellow is predicting a foot of snow you can always tune into some station and find a forecaster who sees only a couple of inches. Caught in a station which chills with a prophecy of a drop below zero you can fool around until you find some prophet with a more agreeable disposition who will give you nothing worse than a temperature in the 30s.

It is never necessary to be stuck with bad weather on TV. Not if the dials are all working.

Preparation For Disaster

By PETER EDSON

The one man who believes most in preparing American civilians for a missile and nuclear bomb attack is the administrator of the U.S. civil defense program. He is the former Republican governor of Iowa, Leo A. Hoegh. His title now is Director of the Office of Civil Defense and Mobilization—OCDM. He has been on the job a little over a year and a half. It isn't anywhere near done.

However, "Few people realize the tremendous capabilities we now have," says the blond, crew-cut, young official.

"There are 106 of our 176 million people who live in cities of 50,000 or less. They could all be saved in a bomb attack if they'd just take improvised shelter."

THIS, INSISTS HOEGH, could involve such a simple act as going to the basement or for apartment dwellers, going to the interior of the building, away from exterior windows.

The principal idea is to put as much mass, as much weight as possible between them and the place where the bomb hits. It will provide protection from radiation five miles or more from this ground zero.

People who live in the big industrial centers or near military installations, which are prime targets of course have less chance for survival. They need protection more than the people who live in the smaller cities or rural areas. They're also the ones who will have to get up off the ground and fight back.

"We have been urging people for years to provide themselves with shelter, to stock it with two weeks' food and water, blankets, a first-aid kit and a flashlight," says the governor. But he admits few have taken the advice.

SOME CITIES like Milwaukee, Portland, Ore., and Miami, Fla., have good plans. The U.S. government and many big industries have good evacuation and relocation plans. But over the whole U.S. preparedness is still spotty. Governor Hoegh himself practices what he preaches. In his home in suburban Kenwood, Md., he has built and stocked a cellar shelter. It cost him $243.

"It will protect my family and me by a ratio of 1,000," he says. "If 10,000 Roentgens of radiation result from a nuclear bomb hit near Washington, anyone in my shelter will get only 10 Roentgens, which is harmless."

The governor believes that if more people had this shelter, it would be a deterrent to war. "If an enemy knows we have a capability for recovery, he won't attack."

To make this system effective, Governor Hoegh says there must be control. This is what OCDM, state and local civil defense organizations must provide.

OCDM officials are on duty 24 hours every day at NORAD—North American Air Defense Command headquarters. They can flash warnings to 276 principal target areas.

STATE AND LOCAL governments take it from there. Mayors and county officials have to decide whether to tell their people to take cover or to evacuate—if there's time.

In the 1958 Operation Alert civil defense tests, 28 state governments were organized to take part. For the three tests this year in May, June and July, 40 states are ready.

Over the years, OCDM has built up a 200-million-dollar stockpile of medical supplies. It has 1,93 hospitals of 200 beds or more picked out for emergency relief centers.

Some local fire, police and health organizations have been given preliminary civil defense training. And there are millions of volunteers signed up for disaster duty.

Forty-five million cards have been distributed for people to carry, telling them what to do in case an alarm is sounded. Last year Boy Scouts distributed 45 million copies of a 24-page "Handbook for Emergencies"—storm, fire, flood as well as atomic. This action was criticized as a waste.

But the recommendation was that householders put this booklet in the family Bible. The Bible could come in handy, too.

Summit Conference Will Be of No Value

Three years and three months isn't a long time in world affairs, yet how many people who are so enthusiastically hailing the next "summit" conference remember that the Soviet government made a solemn pledge three years ago at a "summit" conference and then broke it four months later at a foreign ministers' conference?

Of what avail is any "summit" conference if the agreements are later torn into scraps of paper? A certain communique, for instance, is worth rereading today. The head of the Soviet government—Bulganin—with Khrushchev at his side, signed it on July 23, 1955. It was issued after a "summit" conference at Geneva, attended also by President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden of Britain and Premier Faure of France. The statement says:

"The heads of government, recognizing their common responsibility for the settlement of the German question and the reunification of Germany, have agreed that the settlement of the German question and the reunification of Germany by free elections shall be carried out in conformity with the national interests of the German people and the interests of European security."

"The foreign ministers will make whatever arrangements they may consider desirable for the participation of, or for consultation with, other interested parties."

THIS WAS a "directive" or formal instruction to the foreign ministers of the same four countries—the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France and the United States. The four ministers then met at Geneva and here is the full text of the joint declaration of France, Great Britain and the United States, issued at the close of the conference on Nov. 16, 1955:

"At Geneva, the foreign ministers of France, the United Kingdom and the United States of America tried to reach agreement with the Soviet foreign minister on what the four heads of government in July agreed were the closely linked problems of German reunification and European security. To this end, they made a proposal for the reunification of Germany by free elections in 1956 and for a treaty of assurance giving the Soviet Union far-reaching safeguards against aggression when Germany was reunified."

"Marshal Bulganin in July had agreed that the reunification of Germany was the common responsibility of the four powers and should be carried out by means of free elections. The Soviet foreign minister, however, despite the directive of the heads of government, made it plain that the Soviet government refused to agree to the reunification of Germany, since that would lead to the liquidation of the East German regime. He made counterproposals which would have involved the continued division of Germany as well as the eventual dissolution of the Western security system. It is for this reason that the negotiations have failed."

"The foreign ministers of France, the United Kingdom and the United States of America are aware that this result must bring a sense of cruel disappointment to the German people, east and west, of the zonal border which now unjustly divides them. However, the three foreign ministers believe that the Soviet government will come to recognize that its own self-interest will be served by ending the injustice of a divided Germany. They believe that the Soviet government will realize that so long as it persists in withholding unity from the German people, there can be no solid security in Europe, nor, indeed, in the world."

"THE THREE Western powers will themselves not cease their efforts to end the injustice and wrong now being done by dividing the German people and will continue to stand ready to contribute to the security which can be enjoyed by all only when Germany is reunified."

Why does the Soviet Union think now it can reap the fruits of its repudiation of the pledge given at the "summit" conference of July 1955 and gain its ends in 1959?

Perhaps it is because the Soviets have an iron determination and believe that the Western democracies are undergoing a process of moral deterioration in which principle will be sacrificed for expediency.

Perhaps it's because the politically selfish Socialist Labor party in Britain, which believes in peace-at-any-price doctrines, has forgotten the fatal appeasement of Hitler at Munich in 1938.

Perhaps it's because, inside the United States, prominent Democrats in Congress, by their speeches and statements in the press, have openly encouraged the Soviet to believe that President Eisenhower "lost the confidence" of the American people in the last congressional election, that the Democrats are going to win the presidency in 1960, and that the next administration will give softer treatment to the Kremlin.

CERTAINLY the widespread pressure for a "summit" conference this summer has persuaded a reluctant President of the United States to go again to Geneva. But the holding of the conference can have only one value: to inform the world once more of the futility of trying to negotiate with a consummate liar.

Meanwhile, all proposals for "disengagement," "nuclear free zones" and "pulling back" Western armies or "freezing" a zone in central Europe are palpable moves of offensive strategy on the military chess board of the men in the Kremlin.

Perhaps it will not take even three months after the next "summit" conference for the world to learn that, when the Soviet government put its signature on a pledge, it cannot be trusted to keep its word. Appeasement of such an adversary can only lead to war.

About The Weather

By TRUMAN TWILL

I intend to do something about the weather.

For once and for all, I intend to quit being an easy mark for pitchmen who use the climate to sell me widgets.

There is no difference between them and the pitchmen Mama told me to be lary of when she packed my carpetbag and sent me out into the world.

"Give them a wide berth," she said. "They are only after your money."

Ever since I first let these fast-talking entrepreneurs into my living room to come in listening to their spiel so they could sell me something, I have been getting my dander up.

This is not an easy thing to do, because my dander is hard to get up. I always will be a sucker for a glib spiel. I admire a spier who can hold my attention.

But the weather spielers have worn out my patience.

They have fooled me too often. From now on, I will fool them. I will not lend them my eyes or my ears for their charts and graphs and cold fronts and all the rest of the climatological jazz they play for profit.

I will go back to thinking about the weather the way I thought about it before it was converted into an electronic pitch.

The climate is not an emergency. It is normal. It is here, day in and day out. When it snows, it snows. When it rains, it rains. When it blows, it blows.

This is normal. I do not intend to take to the hills, the lifeboats, or the hurricane cellars any more, unless something extraordinary is on the way and an all-points alert is issued officially.

I do not intend to be rushed into precipitate action by some spier who is using weather to sell me a widget.

I intend to do something about the weather; namely, to live with it on my terms, not as a subject for dramatization.

The climate pitchmen have kept me in a state of artificial anxiety. They have been interfering with my peace of mind. They have flustered me into bawling down the hatches when it didn't blow and starting to bail when the boat wasn't leaking.

They have sent me forth with a raincoat when it didn't rain and on daisy-picking expeditions when it did rain. They have kept me preoccupied with hopes and fears that never materialized.

They have interfered with my slumber when there was nothing to be anxious about and they have lulled me into false security when I should have been standing by with a stout pole to fend off floating debris.

Most of the dire things that could have racked me up they have goofed on and most of the wonderful days I have enjoyed they did not see coming.

Their percentage of accuracy is not high enough to justify the confidence they have been asking me to have in their prognostications.

From now on, I will take my weather as it comes and quit letting spielers tell me how hot it is in Death Valley and how cold it is on some God-forsaken mountain-top. So what?

They can peddle potato-peelers and juice extractors until their tonsils wear out—but not in my living room.

I am going to do something about the weather. I am going to make it seem normal. Sometimes it snows and sometimes it doesn't. There is nothing I can do about it, except take the bitter with the better when it happens.

negotiations with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Macmillan told reporters that his series of meetings with Eisenhower, including their weekend stay at Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains, constituted "the best conference we ever had in the most enjoyable surroundings."

Similar sentiments came from Eisenhower by way of press secretary James C. Hagerty, who said:

"The President told me he thought it was a very good meeting—that getting together like this, sitting down informally and talking out various aspects of the problems was the way we like to do it."

In his discussions with Eisenhower, Macmillan is reported to have outlined his personal view that Western leaders should look forward to not just one but a number of East-West summit conferences. However, he concentrated on getting the President's agreement to project a summit session for the summer, following up an East-West foreign ministers meeting which now seems virtually certain to open at Geneva May 11.

Even before then, these moves are in prospect:

1. The United States, Britain and France are due to send notes to the Soviet Union soon about arrangements for the proposed meeting of foreign ministers. The foreign ministers would try to reach constructive agreements on German problems and related issues so that their work would justify the subsequent summit conference at a time and place they would select.

2. Ministers of the chief Western powers—the United States, Britain, France and West Germany—will meet here next week for a further detailed discussion of their plans for negotiation with the Soviets in advance of a ministerial meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council here April 2.

Motorist Cited For Driving Across Lawn

Arthur G. Meiter, 37, of 560 N. Ellsworth Ave., went before Mayor Harold D. Smith this afternoon for a hearing on charges of traveling left of center and for hit-skip following a mishap which occurred on Rt. 62, just north of Salem, at 7:50 p.m. Monday.

State highway patrolmen said Meiter could not negotiate a curve and his automobile hit the right hand berm of the road. His car then went to the other side of the road and tore up 200 feet of lawn at the home of Howard E. Firestone. Patrolmen said Meiter righted himself and drove out Firestone's driveway and out onto Rt. 62.

They said a neighbor who saw the accident, followed Meiter whose car radiator was leaking. Patrolmen said Meiter turned into the Brookwood Roller Rink where the neighbor noted his license number and turned it over to patrolmen. The motorist's arrest followed.

"Moss is stuck in a sort of hollow corkscrew," one rescue worker explained. "The only way to free him will be to revolve his body in the hole—to unscrew him."

Moss son of a cotton executive, went exploring in the cave with several friends on Sunday but strayed from the party. The cave is under a Derbyshire hillside owned by the royal family on the grounds of historic Peveril Castle.

Some of the tunnels are only a foot high—circling around an underground lake.

Moss' cries of 'Help me! I'm stuck!' at 1 p.m. Sunday brought others in the party to the crevice in which he had fallen.

Kathleen Wilson is Bride Of Wayne Strong at Lisbon

Palms and baskets of white gladioli and stock adorned the altar of the First Christian Church in Lisbon for the wedding of Miss Kathleen Elaine Wilson and Wayne Dallas Strong, March 8.

The Rev. William Spangler officiated at the double ring ceremony which united in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Wilson of RD 5, Lisbon, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Strong of RD 4, Salem.

Mrs. Robert Beardsley of Costa Mesa, Calif., aunt of the bride, sang "O Perfect Love," "Wilt Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by the organist, Robert Beardsley of Costa Mesa, Calif., uncle of the bride.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and net, fashioned with a scalloped sabrina neckline and long sleeves. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of pearls.

She carried a white Bibl topped with a bouquet of white rosebuds.

Miss Arlene Wilson of Cleveland was her sister's maid of honor. She appeared in a ballerina-length gown of pink silk over taffeta. She wore a matching pink crown and veil, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink baby mums and rosebuds.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Rebecca Carlisle of Columbiana, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Carole Hiscoc of Lisbon, wore identical blue silk over taffeta gowns, with matching veils and crowns. Yellow baby mums and rosebuds formed their colonial bouquets.

Dianna Mallory of Youngstown and Debby Carlisle of Columbiana were the flower girls. They wore dresses of blue organza and white picture hats.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

By the time the President throws out the first ball there may be other activity in the White House bull pen. Scouts report that the old Eisenhower team is about to lose its best "left" hand — namely U. S. Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell.

Not only does he no longer wish to run for vice president in 1960 but Mr. Mitchell wants out as secretary of labor.

He wants to quit the Cabinet because of what some of his friends now call Mitchell's migraine. He has so many headaches he doesn't know whether he can take another season — the last one before the presidential election.

To Jim Mitchell, the season is a nightmare of called strikes. For the most part he tries to avert the big ones — usually by lining up with his friends inside labor. But this season he just won't be permitted to do that.

On basic labor policy, Mitchell can no longer talk for the White House. And unless he can do just that behind the doors which must close on conferences at which the labor-management crises are settled, he will have no influence.

THE DECISION has been made by President Eisenhower. The "line" on labor has hardened. Labor leaders called it the Eisenhower - Summerfield - Nixon line. It will be held through the '60 campaign.

It is a decision made by practical men who say that they gave Jim Mitchell "many" years to woo labor — or at least to get the union chiefs to ease their attacks on the White House.

Holders of the line say Mitchell failed. They don't blame him. They're just saying that if the labor leaders want a showdown, they can have it.

Insiders, for example, point to the coming steel crisis. The White House is opposed to the Steelworkers' heavy demands for a billion dollar contract increase.

The administration will not permit Jim Mitchell to do what he was asked to do during the last steel strike back in 1956.

The strike, which began when men poured out of the mills the first day of July, appeared as if it would run into August. Sometime towards the end of July, Clifford Hood, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., answered a phone call from a friend of Jim Mitchell.

Mr. Hood was told the labor secretary wanted the strike ended. Mr. Mitchell would like to see Mr. Hood personally. The appointment was made.

THE BIG STEEL executive was told by Jim Mitchell that he had just spoken to the President. The administration wanted the men back — and by the following week-end. When Mr. Hood protested that he was not the strike leader, but the struck leader, it was suggested that the White House would appreciate some concessions. The walkout had to end. It did.

This year appears to be bringing with it another steel crisis. With the change in White House attitude — brought on by its eagerness to keep wage and prices level — Mitchell will not be asked to pressure the industry. Indeed, he may find himself being told that the White House would prefer that Dave McDonald's United Steelworkers be pressured.

This the labor secretary would not like to do. He is opposed to the "hard" line. Reports are that he finds himself swinging more and more towards the friendlier policy of that other contender for the Republican nomination — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

MR. ROCKEFELLER has been consulting his state's labor leaders. When he was ready to push what will be the first anti-racketeering labor law, the governor conferred with New York's AFL-CIO leaders.

Then Rockefeller invited special AFL-CIO ethical practices counsel, Art Goldberg and several other lawyers to discuss the draft with him personally for some two hours in Albany. They debated. But all left satisfied that the other side was friendly.

This is more to Jim Mitchell's liking. That's why he wants to quit the national team — and will soon enough.

Four Yank Hurlers Combine to Gain 5-0 Win Over Orioles

Braves Beaten By Dodgers 10-6

Tigers Drop Redlegs; Phillies Also Win

By The Associated Press
Erase one pitcher from the possible list of Washington Senators starters.

The name is Tom Sturdivant. He wears blue pin stripes and has a big "NY" on the front of his uniform.

The experts had him figured a cinch Senator by opening day April 9, but Monday he pitched like a Yankee should and it now appears he'll be staying in New York come cherry blossom time.

Sturdivant was one of four Yankee right-handers who combined in a 5-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles at Miami. It was the first spring shutout for the Yanks.

Sturdivant hardly looked like one of the expendables the Yanks reportedly have been using as trade bait for a front-line Washington pitcher.

The 6-1 Yankee, who finished 1958 in Manager Casey Stengel's doghouse, allowed only two hits in five innings. He walked three and struck out one. Both hits came in the same inning, but a double play ball got him out of trouble.

Another Yank with his job on the line, veteran pitcher Virgil Trucks, followed Sturdivant and pitched goose eggs for two innings.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, hung a 10-6 defeat on Milwaukee, its 10th in 13 games. Lew Burdette gave up six runs and Bob Rush the other four, all in the big Dodger seventh.

The Detroit Tigers, finally getting both pitching and hitting won their fourth in a row, 15-5, over Cincinnati at Lakeland. Harvey Kuenn, Al Kaline, Frank Bolling and Rocky Bridges combined for 13 of the Tigers' 19 hits.

RECEIVE AWARDS — The Salem Hunting Club and a club member were honored recently at the annual banquet of the Columbiana County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs at the Fish and Game Building in New Waterford. The club was awarded a plaque from the Salem American Legion Post for outstanding conservation work and its Hunter Safety programs in which over 300 area boys and girls have received instruction. M. Miles, Howard Adrian of East Liverpool, federation president, and Dave Kirby, Salem Hunt Club president.

up with an impressive rookie performance as 19-year-old Ed Keegan permitted St. Louis only one run in five innings, but it took a pinch grand slam homer by 38-year-old Dave Philley before St. Louis was beaten 9-5 at St. Petersburg.

Turk Lown, Don Rudolph and Bob Shaw combined in a six-hitter for the Chicago White Sox as Chicago scored five runs in the first two innings off Kansas City starting pitcher Walt Craddock. The 8-5 Chicago victory was the first taste of major league ball for Hollywood, Fla. The Chicago Cubs, San Francisco, Boston, Cleveland, Washington and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Morrow Not Running at Peak Form

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Olympic sprint champion Bobby Morrow has been running 9.3 hundreds but he says he isn't at his peak.

He doesn't want to be — he's saving that for the big meets like the National AAU, the United States-Soviet Union dual meet and the Pan-American Games.

Morrow was timed in 9.35 at Odessa, Tex., Saturday when he beat his arch rival, Dave Sime of Duke, in a special 100-yard dash that evened their sprint series. Each has beaten the other twice.

"If I'd known they were going to time like that—you can't time in the hundreds — I wouldn't have run," said Morrow. "I guess that's the only place in the world where they do that."

He said since he was timed past 9.3 it had to be 9.4, and that Sime was given a time of 9.4. "We weren't that close," said Morrow.

Anyway, Morrow is aiming at his next appearance — a special 100-meter dash at the Texas Relays in Austin April 4. He won that event in the Olympics of 1956. He has been timed in 10.2 for the 100 meters.

Morrow is ineligible for the relay meets because he has finished his college athletic eligibility and has to appear only in special races. He'll do the same at the Drake Relays.

Maple Leafs, Bruins to Meet

Contest Will Open Stanley Semifinals

BOSTON (AP) — Toronto's Cinderella Maple Leafs and Boston's battling Bruins clash tonight in the opener of a best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series featuring hockey's hottest clubs and a couple of "old men" in the goals.

Toronto General Manager and Coach Punch Imlach cockily predicted a Leafs' victory in six games while Bruins' Coach Milt Schmidt issued a guarded statement that his team was "up for any kind of opposition."

The Maple Leafs won five straight in eight days to pull from far back and edge into the National Hockey League's fourth playoff spot. The Bruins won six of their last seven to secure second place.

A pair of forgotten men — Johnny Bower of Toronto and Harry Lumley of Boston — were key performers in their clubs' drive into the playoffs for pro hockey's world championship.

Bower, who spent most of his career in the minor leagues, lists his age as 33. He returned from an injury and allowed only 13 goals in helping the Leafs to the playoffs.

Lumley, a veteran of 14 pro seasons, responded to an emergency call from the Bruins for the second straight year to fill in for regular goalie Don Simmons, sidelined by an emergency appendectomy.

Homer Triandos Remembers Best Didn't Go In Books

MIAMI (AP)—Gus Triandos is the husky power guy who belted 30 home runs for Baltimore last season, tying the American League record for catchers. The homer he remembers best is one that didn't count.

"I hit it in the first inning at Detroit," he said, "but then it rained and the game was washed out. So was the home run."

That one would have put him in the record book all alone. As is, however, he isn't cramped for space. Only Yogi Berra has hit as many in one season among AL catchers, setting the record in 1952 and matching it in 1956. Ironically, Triandos is one of that legion of catchers who failed to budge Berra out of a job with the New York Yankees.

Triandos hit 13 of his 30 home runs at home. He hit only two against the Yankees, neither in New York. He had a .245 batting average for the season, .125 against the Yankees.

One of his homers against the champs, however, was a pip, backing up Hoyt Wilhelm's 1-0 no-hitter. It also was the record-tying 30th.

Mesmer Coal Loses

Herron, Davidson Teams Win Tilts

Two Salem teams came out winners while a third dropped out of contention last night at the Memorial Building in opening round action in the 25th annual Little City cage tournament last night.

Herron Transfer, loaded with five men 6-4 or better, rolled over Vermilion Valley View 72-53 while Davidson Sales Store edged David Cigar of Massillon 58-55. Mesmer Coal of Salem lost 75-60 to Bettler's Service of Canton and Mahoning Valley Supply won over Local CIO 50-47 of Midland, Pa. 66-79.

John Mandish hooked 22 and Bob Lutsch to pace Herrons while Hershey had 19 for Vermilion. Herrons led 37-25 at the half and 53-37 after three periods.

John Case had 16 and Wes Schellenger 15 to lead Davidson's of Salem over Massillon, Davidsons trailed 29-22 at the half and 45-38 after three quarters but pulled the contest out of the fire in the last three minutes.

Dick Teel's 27 and Bob Herrod's 14 were high for Bettlers while Ray Hiner had 17, Don Capel 16 and Jerry Hendricks 14 for Mesmer Coal.

The winners had quarter leads of 15-13, 34-25 and 55-41.

Scoring 37 points in the second quarter Mahoning Valley overcame a 14-7 first quarter deficit to post a 44-35 half time lead over Local

'Great Stone Face'

Johnson Hopes for Better Season This Year Than In '58

By ED NICHOLS

Brush-Moore Special Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — In moments of reverie, Connie Johnson likes to imagine he's Nat (King) Cole.

During working hours he thinks he's a mixture of Satchel Paige and, maybe, Joe Louis.

"I was nobody last year, not even Clifford Johnson — that's me — but they call me Connie," explained the long, lean, loose fellow from Stone Mountain, Ga., by way of Kansas City.

"You-all know I had a terrible year, but here's a new season poppin' right slap dab in my face. So we'll see what happens this time."

LET'S TAKE a squint at the 1958 pitching records of this veteran righthander: Games started, 17; games completed, 4; innings pitched, 118; hits surrendered, 116; games won, 6; games lost, 9. That doesn't sound like the guy

Black Hawks Underdogs In Semifinals

MONTREAL (AP) — The fearsome Montreal Canadiens ruled top heavy favorites to sail through their semifinal Stanley Cup play-offs with Chicago starting tonight, but if the Black Hawks are worried they're not showing it.

Hawk Coach Rudy Pilous said his operatives have no illusions that they're going to have an easy time of it in the best-of-7 set.

"The Canadiens aren't cocky," he observed. "They are a great championship club. But they could be just a trifle overconfident, and if we get a bit lucky you can't tell what might happen."

The Canadiens have won the coveted cup the past three years and if they take it again this time, they will set a record. Toronto is the only other club to win it three years in a row.

Coach Toe Blake expects ace goalie Jacques Plante, who missed the last three games of the regular season, to be ready to take his place in the nets.

He also said he thought Bernie Geoffrion, recuperating from a strained stomach muscle, might be ready.

Middlecoff Wins Golf Tourney

Leads St. Petersburg Field by 3 Strokes

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — If history repeats, Cary Middlecoff will win the Master's Tournament this year.

In 1955 the gangling golf jitterbug won the St. Petersburg Open and then went on to win at Augusta.

Monday he completed half of that parlay by again winning the St. Petersburg Open, and doing it in a manner to convince any doubters that a six-month layoff from tournament competition had improved his game, if anything.

He was as fidgety as ever, but when he settled down to stroke a putt there was no fooling about it. He sank the ball from all parts of the greens in compelling rounds of 70, 69, 67 and 69 for a 13-under-par total of 275, three strokes better than the second-place finisher, Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla.

The first day he trailed George Bayer of Glenageles, Ill.; Tom Mahan Jr. of Danvers, Mass., and Tony Lema of San Leandro, Calif., by four strokes with his two-under-par 70.

At the half-way point he still was four strokes back of Bayer, who was leading with 135, and after three rounds he trailed Bob Goalby of Bellesville, Ill., the new leader, by a stroke.

He caught up with Goalby on the first hole of the final round, and thereafter crept slowly ahead. Goalby faded to a 75 and a third-place finish at 280; Cooper only a stroke behind Middlecoff at the start of the final 18, carded a 71 and finished in second place at 278.

Moore Is 1958-59 Hockey Scoring Ace

MONTREAL (AP) — Montreal's Dickie Moore is the 1958 - 59 National Hockey League scoring champion, according to final league statistics released today.

And teammate Jacques Plante won his fourth Vezina Trophy for being the least scored upon goalie. Both honors carry a $1,000 stipend from the league.

Moore finished with 96 points, on 41 goals and 55 assists. This was a new NHL record, bettering by one Gordie Howe's 1952-53 mark.

Plante led the league in shutouts with nine, tying his production of the last two seasons.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau was second to Moore with 91 points. His 45 goals were tops for the league. Moore's 55 assists topped that department. New York's Andy Bathgate was third with 88 points while Detroit's Howe was fourth with 78 points.

PELLET SHOOTERS STRIKE

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Motorized pellet shooters struck here again Monday night, firing several shots from a moving auto at another motorist.

Paul McNatt, 26, said four teen-age boys pulled up beside him and one of them fired four pellets into his car from an air rifle. McNatt was not hurt, but two windows of his car were broken.

Wednesday, vandals shot out windows in 10 homes in suburban East Memphis.

Writer Points Up Differences Between Ike, Khrushchev

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Their handling of their foreign ministers—and their attitude toward a foreign ministers meeting—is a prime example of the difference between President Eisenhower and Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Khrushchev treats his foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko, like a bookkeeper in charge of small details. Perhaps no president in history ever depended more on his Secretary of State than Eisenhower on John Foster Dulles.

It is hard to imagine Khrushchev at a loss for a word or an idea at a summit get-together if Gromyko never showed up. He already has dismissed as a waste of time a foreign ministers meeting before a summit conference.

Dulles has been Eisenhower's strong right arm in foreign affairs. It is doubtful, because of his cancer, that Dulles can go overseas to a summit meeting with the President.

To be sure, Eisenhower, before he goes, will be well briefed on details by his State Department aides and perhaps by Dulles himself.

But on a minute by minute basis that won't be the same as having Dulles with him. The President respected Dulles' judgment, relied on him, listened, was guided by him.

It is no wonder Eisenhower, contrary to Khrushchev, until recently had insisted that any summit meeting must be preceded by a foreign ministers conference which showed some progress and agreement before the top men met.

If Eisenhower now seems to be attaching less importance to a foreign ministers meeting it may be due more to Dulles' illness than any argument by Khrushchev or influence by British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Besides reliance on Dulles, there's another good reason why Eisenhower should put much store on a foreign ministers meeting as a preliminary to the summit conference. Reliance on foreign ministers to work things out has been a traditional method of Western diplomacy, not summit meetings. There are broad differences also between the President and the Russian premier.

The chubby, bald, extroverted Khrushchev—if he had been raised in this country—would have been called a pusher. He has been pushing all his life. He is an innovator and an experimenter.

Eisenhower, although he can play slam-bang politics at campaign time, is essentially a traditionalist and a conservative. He has done no innovating socially or economically here at home. He is a preserver.

His long and successful military career by itself alone would have been an enormous force in making him a respecter of tradition.

Khrushchev, on the other hand, pushed his way up through the cannibalistic ranks of the Communist party. Once at the top he kept pushing. First, he pushed aside the traditional idolatry lavished on the memory of Stalin; next he shoved aside his co-equals, the other heirs of Stalin, like Molotov, Malenkov, Bulganin, Beria.

Meanwhile, he was trying to push the world in the direction he wanted—toward communism. He has done it with threats, with arms in Hungary, economic aid to the backward countries, infiltration in the Middle East, and blandishments toward the rest of the earth.

He has butted heads with Communist party big-wigs to send Soviet economic development spurting ahead. He even talked—but stopped talking after the Hungarian revolt—about letting Communist parties elsewhere relax.

Now he is determined to shake loose the East-West deadlock which has existed in Germany since World War II.

The summit meeting will be a conference between a rambunctious, daring but shrewd man and a conservative who has no revolutionary ambitions but is determined to preserve what the West holds, yielding not an inch to the advantage of the Soviet Union.

YESTERDAY'S MEDICINE, TODAY'S COW FEED

A short time ago, people thought blackstrap molasses was effective treatment for anemia and rheumatism. Today we know better. We wouldn't think of relying on "home remedies" when we have so many fast-acting, reliable modern medications available to us. But remember—most medicines should be taken only upon the advice of your physician. The next time you're not feeling up to par, see your doctor first. Then, if he orders medication, come to us for quality prescription service.

Plain talk to the man who thinks "all cars are built alike today"

J. EMMET JUDGE

"The one thing we know car buyers want above all in an automobile is quality. Yet many people assume that all cars today are pretty much the same in this respect.

This is far from being the case. I can name at least 30 basic differences in the design of our '59 Mercury. Naturally, we feel these differences make Mercury a better car. For example:

EXTRA STRENGTH STARTS WITH THE FRAME
The backbone of every Mercury is the frame. We use a heavy box-type construction—the heaviest in the industry. Competitors use frames that are up to 125 pounds lighter.

WE BUILD QUALITY YOU CAN SEE
Compare the way Mercury builds engine hoods. Most competitive cars use what is known as a single-panel construction. This type of hood can be twisted and turned with the slightest pressure—often flutters and vibrates when the car is in motion. At Mercury, on the other hand, we use a double-panel construction—two layers of steel with the insulation sandwiched in between. Not only is Mercury's hood more rigid, but it looks better.

YOU FEEL THE QUALITY WITH EVERY STOP...

Mercury brakes are the largest in the field—with up to 22% more brake lining than competitive cars. And only Mercury in its field has brakes that adjust themselves mechanically. You save money by eliminating periodic adjustments. And you are safer because Mercury brakes stay properly adjusted for the life of the linings.

...AND EVERY TIME YOU TAKE THE WHEEL
All 1959 Mercurys have a flexible coupling installed in the steering system.

This acts as an insulator—absorbs road shocks that would otherwise travel up to the steering wheel. Mercury, unlike some cars, gives you this with either manual or power steering.

WE HAVE PLENTY OF PROOF THAT THIS IS THE BEST-BUILT CAR IN AMERICA TODAY

We know it is the greatest Mercury ever designed and built. Never in Mercury's 20-year history have we had so much value in the product itself. Mercury has advantages everywhere over competition. The four described on this page are only typical. In future messages I'll tell you about dozens more—in styling, comfort, in everything you want in a car.
